A PROFESSIONAL OVERLAMINATING TAPE MANUFACTURER

In order to serve its customers and raise profitability, ACHEM proactively seeks to expand its product line. By developing specialty chemicals and optic-electronic materials from its core knowledge of coating techniques, it has successfully leaped from traditional to high-tech industry.

Established in 1960, ACHEM has made coating technology its core competitive advantage to produce and commercialize PSA tape products for over five decades. As the first to develop solvent acrylic BOPP tape, ACHEM is known internationally as a leading manufacturer in the world for formulating and coating various grades of acrylic adhesives.

ACHEM aims to be a “Customer-Oriented” company, always on the lookout for new market trends to offer better quality products and service. To maintain quality, ACHEM subjects its products to the highest quality controls. Starting from the initial raw material inspection to the final packing and loading, each step is examined with detail and precision making sure that all processes, even the most minor procedure, is followed.

To effectively serve our customers and be able to market our extensive product portfolio, ACHEM has established many service centers and sales offices around the world to ensure timely response to customer needs. This way ACHEM is able to achieve a harmonious balance between supply and demand, and create a win-win situation through service and cooperation.

GREEN PROTECTION

Only the most innovative, goal-oriented and visionary companies can recognize the life of a corporation in relation to the ecology and are able to prioritize its policy to better the environment.

On environmental protection issues, ACHEM applies environmentally safe methods and contributes to the care of our Earth where we all live in.
