Company Description

RFI is a life science development and commercialization company manufacturing novel natural compounds. We develop and market proprietary science-based nutritional bioactives for human health and wellness, merge advanced nutritional technology into consumer applications and utilize a corporate partnering strategy to commercialize proprietary functional ingredients and formulas.

Our dedication to the development and commercialization of unique bioactives into functional consumer product applications allows us to offer cutting edge technology to the market. As a hybrid biotechnology/nutrition development company, RFI is unique in our ability to leverage proprietary bioactives into consumer applications at a fraction of the typical development costs. RFI features ISO-9001-certified organic manufacturing capabilities and unparalleled supply chain traceability.
